SASMO, international standardization, content of Syrian standards, trade relations

Syria is currently interested in rebuilding its economy. The geopolitical situation has shown that Russia is a reliable partner for Syria and may well take a leading position in the food market in this country. This corresponds to the national interests of Russia, especially since the new food Doctrine of the Russian Federation is aimed at the export of goods.

SASMO cooperates with such international organizations as ISO, IEC, FAO, WHO, etc. The procedure for the development and harmonization of national Syrian standards complies with international requirements. At the same time, it should be noted that the Syrian standards do not create trade barriers for international trade. The presented analysis is of practical importance for further trade and economic relations in the field of food products turnover between Russia and Syria.
